

PRESENTATION

The Transport, Logistics, and Supply Chain sector holds a strategic position in today's global economy. Transport, in particular, plays a crucial role by ensuring the efficient movement of goods at local, national, and international levels.

In a context of increased globalization, digitization of processes, and the constant pursuit of performance, companies face major challenges related to flow optimization, cost control, and customer satisfaction. The ability to effectively manage the global supply chain and organize appropriate transport solutions has become a key driver of competitiveness and differentiation.
